

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies
control the airwaves, we get more of what's good
for the bottom line
and less of what we need for our democracy. Instead of something
produced to advance
only one opinion or agenda the citizens
of a democracy must be well informed on issues in a
non-partisan method.
I think it is
shameful to air such a one-sided story so close to an election. Who are you really serving?

Thank you.
